Biography:  (File Size: 13 KB)

James D. Broadway maintains membership in the American Academy of Hospital Attorneys and the Illinois Association of Healthcare Attorneys, and has actively practiced in the health care field, representing hospitals, mental health and drug-treatment clinics, physicians and a variety of allied health professionals, since 1972. His representation of hospitals has encompassed a myriad of issues, including the creation of multi-tiered non-profit health care systems, involving both tax-exempt and for profit participants, physician practice acquisitions and investment joint ventures, physician employment contracts, medical staff credentialing and disciplinary actions, and tax-exempt bond financings.

In addition to his health care practice, Mr. Broadway has represented numerous clients in connection with the establishment of various business entities, including corporations, partnerships and limited liability companies, the acquisition of other businesses and the sale of business interests. He has extensive experience representing commercial real estate developers in the central Illinois area, and he has advised commercial lenders with respect to the structuring and documentation of their commercial business and real estate loans.
